

AAS Individual Studies

At the completion of this degree program, students will be able to do the following:

1. Effectively communicate using the conventions of a chosen career field.
2. Critically analyze and solve problems.
3. Demonstrate mathematical competency needed for chosen career field.
4. Demonstrate an understanding of the scientific method, data, concepts, and models in one of the natural sciences.
5. Students will demonstrate knowledge of major concepts, models, and issues of at least one discipline in the social sciences as well as the accepted methods of studying behaviors and interactions among individuals and groups in society.