POSITION DESCRIPTION
SECOND CHANCE PELL PROGRAM COORDINATOR

Job Title: Second Chance Pell Program Coordinator
Job Status: Full-time
Department: Academic Affairs
Supervisor: Second Chance Pell Program Director

North Country Community College (NCCC) is a small community college located in the Adirondack State Park in Northern New York. The main campus is located in Saranac Lake with additional campuses in Malone and Ticonderoga. While the College offers numerous majors including several occupational programs, the College focuses on a liberal arts education as a foundation for any degree program. Classes are relatively small providing opportunities for a close academic and academic advising relationship with each student. As part of its commitment to open access, NCCC provides degree program opportunities for incarcerated individuals residing in the regional correctional facilities. We partner with both the state and federal correctional departments to conduct courses and programs across four facilities.

General Job Description: In line with the mission of the College, the Second Chance Pell Program Coordinator works closely with correctional partners in carrying out the day-to-day academic, support and administrative functions of the Second Chance Pell program. Co-located in two regions (either the Northern or Southern Region), the Coordinator supports the objectives of the program through overseeing registration and advising as well as creating academic supports such as tutoring, both professional and peer (in conjunction with the prison education staff). This individual would also assist the Second Chance Pell students in accessing their transcripts and, with correctional facility re-entry staff, develop both job skills and job search skills. For those students who wish to transfer to a BA/BS degree program or to another college to complete the AAS program, the coordinator will work with the applicable Program Director and the facility staff, and the receiving college to promote a transfer process. This NCCC staff person would also ensure that reporting requirements for the project were met and would work closely with the direct supervisor and the Vice President of Academic Affairs (VPAA) office.

The NCCC academic work year is 164 days; this position is 221 days in line with the operations of the prison and the nature of the program. This coordinator will primarily have responsibilities across two to three regional correctional institutions, depending on the region for which they were hired. The Northern Region includes Bare Hill and Franklin Correctional facilities, and the Southern Region includes Adirondack Correctional and FCI Ray Brook. FCI Ray Brook is a federal facility and the other three are state, so the coordinator will navigate state, federal, and sometimes county regulations and guidelines. There may be occasional meetings and work assignments on one of the College's campuses in support of the program's objectives. Vacations, holidays and other breaks follow the College calendar. Regarding emergency-related closures, if a correctional facility is shut down and/or access is denied, the employee is expected to report to work. If the College closes, the employee is not expected to report to a correctional facility for work, even if its operations remain open.

Whenever possible, the employee will be based at the correctional facilities within the designated region. Travel in support of the program to alternate work sites other than the primary sites (region) or the campus in the region (Northern Region is Malone, Southern Region is Saranac Lake) will be reimbursed at the state rate. The employee reports to the Second Chance Pell Program Director and works with the Education Supervisor at the participating facility for each of the correctional facilities in the respective region.

Correctional facilities are unique environments in which to work given the need for safety considerations at all times. It is expected that there are variable conditions, which can lead to variability of duties based on the changing conditions at the facilities. Additionally, when employees are inside any of the correctional facilities, there is no access to personal electronic devices including cell phones, tablets, or computers.

The Second Chance Pell Program Coordinator is a member of a collective bargaining unit and works under a collective bargaining agreement (CBA).
